

leadership training by randstad.

Set your managers up for success with training from the world's largest HR solutions partner.

Although your supervisors and team leads were great associates, do they have the skills they need to succeed now that they're overseeing teams? Have they received leadership training on soft skills, communication, monitoring KPIs or performance management? If not, your organization isn't getting the most out of your teams. That doesn't just damage morale and diminish employee engagement — it can put a dent in your bottom line, too.

training solutions designed for you

Our training program is designed to arm supervisors and leads with the skills they need to drive productivity and deliver the mission-critical outcomes your business needs to thrive. Based on insights gained from working with thousands of leading companies in your industry, we've built a training program that will help your managers:

- achieve performance goals
- communicate effectively
- improve engagement, morale and retention
- coach staff proactively to improve performance
- expertly onboard and train new hires
- address disciplinary challenges appropriately
- understand and implement conflict resolution best practices

quick learning, lasting impact

Our intensive training program is completely customized to your business. They can be as short as half a day or up to three days, depending on your organization's needs. Whether it's a few hours or a few days, your supervisors will be back in action fast. But the learning they'll come away with will lead to lasting, measurable improvements. Our curriculum also comes with a thorough handbook your managers can keep and refer to as needed, giving them a valuable resource they can use long after the training program ends.

And best of all, you don't have to dedicate months to building a best-in-class training program of your own. Our program delivers best-in-class instruction in a completely off-the-shelf package.

the randstad advantage

As the world's leading HR solutions provider, we've spent 60+ years learning management best practices from our industry-leading customers. Now, we've put everything we've learned into a comprehensive training curriculum designed to give your front-line managers a leadership edge. With Randstad, you're not just learning from one organization — you're learning from thousands.

Get in touch with your local Randstad representative today to learn more.

© Randstad North America, Inc. 2020

